CHAPTER 1

HORRIBLE REVELATIONS CONTINUE
GULF WAR SYNDROME
PART III: THE EXPERTS SPEAK OUT!
by Rick Martin 9/1/95

Whenever something is too horrible for the consciousness, denial is one of the first responses.

The Veterans Association and related organizations officially deny to this very day even the existence of Gulf War Illness, while the death toll rises.

Well, we have reached a crossroads where the American public can make a conscious choice to remain in ignorance if they wish. They can close their eyes, bury their heads in the sand, or just choose to ignore the facts. But the truth about the Gulf War Illness and what has been done to our own loyal American veterans is unforgivable.

What you are about to read in the third part of this ongoing series on the Gulf War Syndrome will infuriate you. The information we are using on this subject is provided by the experts on the subject and from the government's own documents, which makes denial all the more difficult. When people of such undisputed credibility as Dr. Garth Nicolson come forward to speak out about what has taken place against our troops at our government's hand, it becomes very, very difficult to refute. Moreover, when a leading Pentagon official writes a scathing report of America's own complicity and cover-up, it BECOMES ALL BUT IMPOSSIBLE TO DENY ANY LONGER.

JOYCE RILEY

The following is a transcription of an interview with Joyce Riley of KENR Radio and founder of the Gulf War Veterans Association [2931 Highland Lakes, Missouri City, TX 77449—(713) 587-5437] and Rick Martin of CONTACT on 8/29/95:

Joyce: I just left Peter Kawaja about three hours ago in Kansas City.

Rick: Oh, really?

Joyce: We just did a huge presentation. They rented a theater, the Inglewood Theater in Kansas City, and they had an excellent presentation. They videotaped it with Peter and I telling the story of the Gulf War Syndrome and on the theater screen we put up all the documented evidence behind everything we say.

Rick: I wish I had known about that.

Joyce: Oh, it was awesome, really good. They've got videos of it, so I can get you one of those.

Rick: Please.

Joyce: People were just in awe. They would gasp. They could not believe what they were hearing. So, it was very impressive.

Rick: Joyce, changing topics here for a minute, I'd like to know as much as possible about George Bush's involvement in all of this.

Joyce: Nancy and Peter will have the most information on that; that is their domain. I met George Bush. I have letters on my wall from him in 1986 and '87 and '88, in which they were congratulating me for what I had done. What happened was, in 1986, I called the White House and invited the vice president [Bush] to come down to Houston and sign an organ donor card. And after making quite a few arrangements the White House said that the vice president said that it would be an excellent idea and he did come to Houston. He told me at the time, "You know, had you been doing this back then or had we had this back when our daughter Robin was alive, it may have saved her life." Well, how many people know that the Bushes had a daughter named Robin?

What I did was, I wrote a letter to the President that I put on my radio program, with AMERICA THE BEAUTIFUL in the background, in which I said, "Mr. President, I want you to know who I am. I invited you to Houston to sign an organ donor card, etc. Now, I beseech you to say to the American people, that germ warfare does exist and is killing thousands of Desert Stormers."

And I said, "Do not think that silencing any one of us will silence the story, for we have risked everything to this point to get the story out and we will not stop." I read this on the Houston radio station, with fear and trepidation, I might add. Baylor is here, George Bush is here, James Baker is here, all the players are here.

Rick: You're in a very sensitive spot.

Joyce: Oh, God. And Mr. Barbouti himself, about whom Peter said on my radio program, "I'd like all Desert Stormers to know that Barbouti lives at 2300 River Oaks," which is one of the most expensive houses in Houston. "And I would like everybody to know where he lives so they can go and shake the hand of the man who helped to kill them."

And I didn't know that Peter was going to put that out on my radio show. It was just like, "Oh, my word, give it to him." But it was pretty awesome information.

Rick: Have you learned anything new? Obviously, spending time with Peter—which you've probably done before now, but...

Joyce: This is the fourth visit and each time, of course, we're just jam-packed full of documents and information to share and more material to transfer and learn. It has been very interesting to meet with him and to learn about him. This man is truly one of America's heroes. This man, for five years, scratched and clawed to try and get this message out and no one would listen to him. No one would believe him. And, as I said in my interview with him last night, I wanted to dedicate it to all Desert Stormers who don't even know that he is their hero because he has done for them something that they don't even know about yet. For four years, I didn't even know he was doing it for us. I cannot tell you. This man has lost everything. He went from being a very successful businessman to losing absolutely everything. He has nothing. I had to loan him $20 to get home. I mean, it breaks my heart to think that you have such a proud, incredible human being, so successful, and now they've broken him of everything. But he will not give up.

Rick: Where do you stand at the moment? Obviously you've been getting a lot of publicity and you have your own radio show.

Joyce: That's really nothing compared to the Desert Stormers that have been calling. The stories I'm getting from them are what is incredible. The evidence we're getting, the material that is being forwarded to us.

There are some Desert Stormers that you could talk to. There is one guy you might want to talk to who is very interesting because he's on active duty in the Navy and he was marathon qualified. And marathon qualified going into the Navy, he was a tri-athlete. He was an incredibly fit person. He went to Desert Storm and got access to the contagion via the aircraft that came back from bombing the biological sites. When they went into Iraq and bombed those sites, came back and landed on the aircraft carriers, they were not decontaminated. Or if they were, the guys got infected in the decontamination process. I don't know which. But he says that he got it probably from not being protected with the equipment over there. He's very sick now. He can barely walk. He's been in a wheelchair part of the time but he can barely, barely walk. He now is afraid to have children because he knows that all the rest of his veteran friends are having deformed children and he doesn't want to do that. His wife is sick. [Conversation interrupted by another incoming call.]

That was a lady calling me who was involved in a mycoplasma experiment in 1970, when the government was first making the crap. She was one of the first people ever to be involved in it and she is really sick now. She's a civilian. She is very sick from this and she has provided me all of her documentation and I mean to tell you, nobody has any idea how bad this stuff is.

But anyway, this one guy I was telling you about who is almost in a wheelchair now, his wife is sick. But she is still working and he is still on active duty, but he can barely work, but they are keeping him on. He's become a sort of threat to them, I guess you could say. The interesting thing, he knew he was contagious with this stuff, so he went to this lady who was in his unit and said, "I need to tell you something. I need to tell you that I have this contagious disease and I know you are pregnant."

And she just went crazy, she went ballistic. She couldn't believe this.

He said, "You know, morally I need to tell you this."

Well, he was brought in for insubordination and told that he is not allowed to talk about the Gulf War Illness. The poor guy. I got a call from him again today, I haven't returned it. But, he keeps me apprised. They're bringing him up on all these charges because he's talking about the Gulf War Illness. Interesting things like that are happening. But it is going to come out. People are getting panicked now. They're starting to get real scared about this thing.

I'm getting letters from guys that are so sick they can't even walk, and they're on five psychiatric drugs.

Other than that, I'm just in contact with these Desert Stormers who are sending me evidence, sending sand, all the things we've been asking for so that we can get it tested. We've had people who have gas masks, gas mask filters that we're going to be able to test—people calling saying they were actually involved with the biologicals and they are willing to sign an affidavit. The more information we are getting out, the more people who are coming forward with information. But so many of those guys who did deal in the biologicals are so sick that all we can do is get them to do an affidavit because they're not going to be around for very long.

Rick: Are you in contact with Drs. Nicolson?

Joyce: Yes, all the time.

Rick: Has pressure increased for them?

Joyce: Yes, there are some things happening there that are pretty stressful but they're just continuing on. They are not stopping. They are getting over a thousand phone calls a day now. Isn't that awesome?

Rick: How are they able to handle that in terms of staffing?

Joyce: They had to personally, themselves, hire two people to handle all the phones. MD Anderson [Cancer Center] won't pay for it. They had to hire them and pay for it. They have to pay for the blood tests and everything.

I said to Garth Nicolson the other day, "You know, this financial business is getting to be really rough." That's another thing that bothers me, Rick. Everybody wants us to do this and put our lives on the line, but how can we do this with no money? How can we make all these long-distance calls with Desert Stormers with no money? They want us to put a computer data base together with all these guys and do all the research on all this stuff and there's no money. And people are going to have to understand, the government will not give us a cent to do this. Some money is going to have to come from somewhere. I don't care if it's a benefactor, I don't care if it's somebody who loves veterans. But somebody is going to have to help us out because if we lose out and have to stop this thing because of financial reasons—I'm not working. I'm doing this full time now. There's not going to be anything and nobody is going to be doing it. So, enough said.

I just had a lady on my program whose son just died on August 2, and he died the most horrible, disgusting, painful death you can imagine. And she told the story about it. She said that he was NATO classified and figured that he had such a high security clearance. He was not a paranoid person, he was not a weak person. He was not a weak personality but something happened in Desert Storm and he got something. He came back so sick he couldn't even drive a car. He couldn't do anything. He died a year later but he screamed in pain the whole year before his death, thanks to the V.A. not medicating him. And she said his mouth, the skin was broken on the sides of his mouth where he screamed so much from pain.

This is the most deplorable way to treat our veterans. I am so appalled that this could even happen. She said, "I never doubted my country in my lifetime."

And she said, “Now I know, my son was murdered by my country.”

I talked to one lady who has two deformed children. Her husband is sick. She is sick. Nobody can work. No SSI, no medicare, no medicaid. These people are destitute now, thanks to our country. And America had better get behind these people because they were behind us at one point.

This one guy I was talking to, I said, “You know you’ve got to get angry. Do you know what’s been done to you?”

And, it’s like this kid was 26 years old when he died. It’s so revolting. But this other guy was 25, and I said, “You’ve got to get angry, you’ve got to get motivated. You’ve got to do something.”

And he said, “I’m so sedated by the V.A., I can’t get mad at anything.”

And that is the problem. They’ve medicated them.

We just had another guy who just bled to death from every part of his body. You know, a young guy, 24-years-old, bleed, just hemorrhaged totally.

Rick: How much do you know about Ebola?

Joyce: Only what Peter has taught me, and the fact that it is a long-term disease. It’s a two-year process. The Ebola they used in Desert Storm is a two-year process, as opposed to a two-week process. I don’t have any more specifics than that.

PETER KAWAJA

The following is a transcription of an interview with Peter Kawaja [4338 Sugar Pine Drive, Boca Raton, FL 33487—(407) 241-8407] and CONTACT on 8/30/95:

Peter: You know what happened? Joyce Riley got burned by a laser and they tried to take me out. Did you hear what happened when we went to Kansas City just recently?

Rick: Why don’t you tell me in your own words.

Peter: We were surveilled all three days that we were there. People sitting out in vehicles outside our window at the motel in shirt and ties in vehicles, where they’re sweating, you know they’re sweating. We were followed everywhere. Just threat and intimidation. But it got more serious than that.

As it turned out, when Joyce Riley and I were eating dinner in the evening, she screamed at me to “duck down!” There was a red dot at my head. I went under the table at the restaurant, came back up and as I came back up I said, “No, this can’t be.”

She again screamed out that the dot was a few inches from my head, moving toward my head. And she said, “There it is again.”

Anyway, I dropped to the floor, took some money out of my pocket and we made it out of the restaurant.

We had security there, as a result—the militia and some military people. And we both made it home safely, but she got home and this morning I talked to her. You may want to call her and get this information, but apparently she has a laser burn on her head. [Joyce Riley did confirm this.]

So that’s just the last few days.

Rick: Let’s talk about your case. [Case No. 94-7074-CIV-Moreno, U.S. District Court, Southern District of Florida] What is the latest development on that?

Peter: Well, the latest development is that I appeared on the 24th. Again, they waited until I went out of town. Let me back up. My case was to be heard on March 10, this year. They filed a Motion to Dismiss based on immunity. They have never responded to my suit. Have you ever seen the charges I’ve brought against these guys?

Rick: No.

Peter: I’ve listed in my complaint three pages of crimes, treason, war crimes, etc. They have never responded saying they deny. They also have never countersued me, never counter-claimed me. Understand?

Rick: Yes.

Peter: All they’ve done is file a Motion to Dismiss, claiming that even if they committed “misconduct”, they should be granted immunity. That’s it.

When they did that, I got an Order from the Judge stating that I have one day to reply to their Motion to Dismiss because they had set a hearing. Now, he didn’t state in the letter I have one day. What they did is—I have the postmark of the letter. After they filed their Motion to Dismiss, they set a hearing for the 10th and he sent me a Notice which I received on March 2, which was a Thursday, telling me I have no later than March 6, which is Monday, to respond. It literally gave me Friday, one day, to prepare the response. Needless to say, I took Saturday and Sunday. Monday morning I walked into court, filed a two-inch thick document, supplied the evidence against these guys. Two days later, Wednesday night, 5:00 P.M., I get a call from the Judge’s secretary stating they have cancelled a hearing because I filed the evidence against them. It was supposed to be heard on Friday the 10th.

Since then, I filed a Motion for Continuance because they cancelled the hearing and the Judge did a Pontius Pilate, when he washed his hands. He sent it over to Magistrate Seltzer for a ruling on their Motion to Dismiss. Dig this. The letter I got from him states that he’s sending over their Motion to Dismiss and their Exhibits, so I filed a Motion saying, “Wow, under the Constitution, etc., etc.—Hey, I want you to hear my case. And how could you send over only the Defendant’s Motion to Dismiss and not MY evidence to a magistrate judge to make a decision on whether to dismiss this bloody thing?”

So, they pulled that shit.

Anyway, six months have gone by. They never responded to my Motions for a Continuance, and I've filed about three other Motions. All of a sudden, out of left field, when I went away, the first time in six months, they mailed a letter saying there was going to be a hearing. I came back and I had four or five days notice for the hearing. I filed five motions, shut them down totally, and I filed a Motion for Summary Judgment because, in fact, I have had a little bit of help and some people have looked at the documents—that their Motion to Dismiss, under Rule 12B—they have not filed in sufficient specificity. There are a lot of loopholes; in other words, they've screwed up and they've never refuted my claims. And, in fact, they have admitted to all of my claims and all of the evidence, which means they committed treason and war crimes, etc.

So, I showed up on the 24th and they changed the courtrooms. They thought the militia was going to show up. They locked the doors to the courtroom. They had a bunch of federal agents armed to the teeth with weapons, handi-talkies inside and outside the court—two female federal agents with guns. I brought witnesses with me this time. Linda Thompson thought it was going to be another Joe Love scenario to try to get me riled and drag me away.

We went into the court, and now it's on the record officially. On top of my documents that I filed, it is officially in court record that here the U.S. attorney himself goes on and starts rattling on about terrorists, about IBI, about the PIT plant, about chemical and biological, about the Gulf War, and the judge himself goes, "You've managed to scare and inflame the court." So, it got pretty heavy.

I'll give you a little "sticker" in all of this. Just like the government arrested—do you remember the NSA agent that was arrested outside of the White House who had an appointment with Hillary Clinton? In the meantime they are saying Gulf War Illness is not communicable or doesn't exist. In case they were going to try to drag me away, my only defense when they've built a scenario like that—I took a mask and I wrote right on it "WARNING: GULF WAR ILLNESS—COMMUNICABLE" and strapped it on my arm. When I was in the court I hacked a couple of times, and you ought to have seen all these big, 8-foot zombie, federal agents with walkie-talkies and guns. They moved down into the jury box. I wanted to go over and shake the judge's hand, nobody wanted to come near me. Nobody wanted to come near me. What I did was, because I had filed my Motions for Summary Judgment just the day prior to the court case on the 24th (the hearing) they did not get a chance to look at them and the judge didn't get a chance to rule. What he did was, he did not rule for them or me, he ruled to give the U.S. attorneys 7 days to respond and for him to review my motions, but he is not going to be able to respond. As a matter of fact, they have until tomorrow.

Rick: What is the judge's name?

Peter: The judge in the case, the real judge is Judge Moreno. But he referred it over to Magistrate Seltzer.

What he has done is reserve the decision because he knew it was important, not to mention also that it was on record, and he saw that I brought witnesses and they knew they could not shut it down that very day.

Right now, it's in limbo but they're going to have a serious problem with the documents that I filed. In fact, they are literally in default and they have admitted to my charges. All they are going on is not that it didn't happen, not that they didn't commit any crimes, only that no matter what they did they should have immunity. That's their stand. That's it. That's their only stand because I can prove everything that I've charged them with, so the only thing they can do is fight for immunity. That's where its at.

Rick: As specific as you can be, let's talk about George Bush's direct involvement in all of this.

Peter: George Bush's direct involvement, oh, you don't want me to talk specific because...

Rick: I do.

Peter: I'll be specifically non-specific. In the Kansas City presentation, a lot of people have heard that I have tapes and I may have tapes or I supposedly have tapes of George Bush. I'll make this disclaimer. First, I have tapes. I'm not in possession of any tapes right now, of course...

Rick: Of course.

Peter: I did tape record CIA, FBI, counter-intelligence, members of Congress, lawyers, lobbyists and all kinds of people—calls to and from Bhagdad, London, and all that. But, any specific recordings of Mr. Bush, the President of the United States, you know that it is illegal to really do that and I would not have done that or have had access, although, in fact, I have been told by certain people within the intelligence community a long time ago—I was communicated with through several different means that I have, what's called "friends". In other words, there's about 10 percent of the CIA or 10 percent of the guys on the inside that are, well, they kind of understand; there are really still a few Americans and they don't agree, for whatever reason, with what took place. And, it is very, very, very, very, well, it's possible that somebody on White House staff or somebody at CIA or somebody somewhere may, they may have made a recording—of course, I didn't, and I wouldn't have that access. I don't claim to. If they did send it to me, you can be sure I don't have it. So, I can't be more specific than that.

Rick: I wasn't really asking about evidence but just what you may have knowledge of concerning his involvement with the biologicals or any companies that...

Peter: Oh, definitely with the companies involved in the biologicals and definitely he was seen in the presence of Dr. Barbouti in 1991. Allen Freeman of the FINANCIAL TIMES OF LONDON—when I was doing the ABC NIGHTLINE joint-venture, they had to feed me stuff as I was feeding them stuff. It was kind of a trade-off. I didn't have a choice, I wanted something done. I now know that they were on a fishing expedition because they got a lot more information from me than they aired. They did a little exposé about Barbouti and if you don't have a copy of that tape I could send you a copy of the NIGHTLINE thing. But they did, I think, four different shows, one on cyanide, one on Barbouti, one on illegal—a couple different exposés, not just specifically about me. But it was all about my evidence and Al Freeman wrote the book SPIDER'S WEB, but during that time they had to cut loose some stuff. Even though there is a certificate of death that I, unfortunately don't have a copy with me here, but you could get it—that Dr. Barbouti died again, for the second time, in July 1990. This is the same month that I sent my package to NSA and just before Saddam went into Kuwait. George Bush was seen in the presence, in 1991, from a reliable source of the FINANCIAL TIMES, with Dr. Barbouti, alive. And, to be very frank, you've got to ask yourself, "Why is the government protecting Haidar Barbouti? He lives in Houston, Texas, 2300 River Oaks Blvd. He married a stripper from RICK'S CABARET, so that he could get a green card and pays her, I think, a million dollars a year. I don't have the exact sum, it's a million whether it is every year or every two years. And that is how he has obtained his green card and stays in the United States legally because he is here, as far as I'm concerned, even now, illegally. I don't think she's paying taxes on that million dollars. Know what I mean?

Rick: Yes, I do.

Peter: I have documents from the U.S. Government itself, from the Department of Defense, from the military, from everybody, Customs, everybody, that tag on their own Dr. Barbouti as supplying Libya and Iraq with chemical and biological weapons and that he is a terrorist. I have them on tape that he is a terrorist, but I also have their own documents [stating] that he is a terrorist. Yet, his son heads up 40 corporations in the United States—was approved and bought—[ultimately] didn't end up buying because I proved their scam. But, the FBI approved him. This is why so many agencies are corrupt and you can prove it. I have his application. Not in my home, but I have a full copy of the credit application for him to buy savings & loans—the same type of scumbag with George Bush and Silverado and those other deals. In 1988 he was approved to buy some S&Ls and on his application where it says "job" he has "none", every answer is none. He doesn't own a home, doesn't have a job, doesn't have any source of income, except he has 40 million dollars for the deposit. It is asked, "How do you get the money," or whatever the question is; he puts down, "from gifts and inheritances."

So, my question is, when the FBI is reviewing these applications, if somebody doesn't have any income or doesn't have a backer, how are you going to come up with more money? From gifts and inheritances? Does he kill more relatives to come up with another hundred million? How is it that they approved this guy's application? That's what I want to know.

The agencies have known. Now, they are protecting this guy. He lives in the United States. Their own evidence proves that they know of their own involvement in the PIT plant, in chemicals and biologicals. They know about Prussian Blue. They know everything. And yet, this guy has never, ever, ever been served a search warrant; never been asked to come downtown, with champagne and caviar and a chauffeured limo, just to have a casual chat with the FBI. Nobody has ever questioned this guy. He walks the streets freely. You want to know why he walks the streets freely? Because they acted in accordance and with the United States Government. If nothing ever, forget about any other evidence, if nothing ever proves anything, the government's evidence against these people is that these people are terrorists. And yet, the United States Government is protecting terrorists in America that kill Americans—bottom line.

Rick: What companies is Bush directly associated with concerning...

Peter: I wouldn't want to misquote, but there were about three companies that we listed down there between him, James Baker, and John Deutch. And Brent Scowcroft ain't so clean. Scowcroft is involved in there with them and also has the involvement with a certain entity in the Atlanta area which crosses over onto a nuclear site.

Rick: If you could provide CONTACT with those specific names, that would be very helpful.

Peter: I know. See, a lot of things I know off the top of my head but if you want to know how much information there is, I don't memorize that because of the 40 corporations alone that these guys have, and then that's an octopus to a bunch of others off-shore. And some of them I want to keep quiet because I want these people to hang themselves, like about the death of my wife. I'm going to let them go into court and commit more perjury. The Order to Seal, by the way, for my Affidavit for Search and the search warrant and all of the evidence that was sealed as "national security"—I have a copy of the Motion to Seal and the Order to Seal. On that, it states, "Until the investigation is over." When you now look, in 1994 is when I filed and I got the unsealing. I didn't get the evidence though, I just got to see one of the Affidavits and there's more. What they are saying in their response to me, to my suit is, "there is an on-going investigation." In that document that they filed, their motion, they have now committed perjury because, in fact, there can not be an ongoing investigation because in their original document to seal, it says that it can only be unsealed when their investigation is over. So, they could not have unsealed it because of the names and the information contained therein would have alerted certain potential targets of the investigation.

It goes on and on and my time to prove it is in a court of law and not here. The evidence just goes on and on and on. There are some things that I remember, only because when the action was going down they were significant to me. Now, things are very, very significant; I have the evidence but those things are not memorized or committed to memory, if you get what I mean. The names were too many. The locations were too many. I traveled extensively in Texas and Oklahoma and to all kinds of locations and all kinds of buildings and all kinds of people and I've got pages and pages and pages of names, people, phone numbers, bank accounts, Swiss bank accounts, you name it, and all of the players and George Bush and everyone else connected. But those are not just committed to memory.

One day I will be able to tell you a lot more. But if I tip my hand as I'm talking now, whether I tell it to you on the phone or if I file it as evidence, I have not filed all of my evidence. I have withheld.

But the point is, at this stage, I have to maintain only a certain set of documents that I put out as general, photocopiable, pass-aroundable documents. If what I am doing is not alerting America, nothing will. A signed confession by George Bush himself will not alert America or make them do anything any more. If the evidence coming out by the Nicolsons, by Riley, by myself, by what you are seeing and hearing, even by Hillary Clinton making statements about the medical I.D. card—you are now hearing things that I have written about for a long time. It's coming to pass. If America doesn't react, they won't react for one more piece of paper.

But I will cooperate with you and I appreciate what you're doing and because you are putting it out to the public. As I think of things, or if I go the beach and a bottle washes up on the shore and there's a piece of paper in there that I feel it is time to put out, you'll get it.

Rick: Excellent. Let's talk for a moment about Ebola Reston and Ebola Zaire. I realize the Nicolsons are saying there are anywhere from 10-15 different organisms involved and you have talked about many different organisms and we here at CONTACT are very familiar with genetic manipulation and the kind of experimentation that goes on. We've published a lot about this subject, in fact. Would you talk about Ebola Reston and Ebola Zaire and what you feel is going on?

Peter: What I feel is going on is, well, first of all the Ebola is a man-made warfare weapon. It is not something that evolved out of Africa on its own. It just didn't come into being on its own. I'm trying to be careful not to tip my hand as to what I may or may not have access to other than the fact that I refer to Ebola Reston vs. Ebola Zaire, in that there are different strains of Ebola, where the real Ebola Zaire that everyone knows is the quick-acting killer. In fact, there are other strains of Ebola which are going around and, if I'm not mistaken, I'm starting to hear that there are other outbreaks. But the outbreak that took place in Reston, Ebola Reston is the key, in that there are, as a result of that, proven other strains that are out there that represent Gulf War Illness—are part of Gulf War Illness. And that it takes a lot longer time to manifest itself and to say more than that would maybe give up my source.

Rick: I understand.

Peter: And that is why I refer to it only that way. Most people equate—they say, "Well, the Ebola, you're dead in under two weeks, 9-10 days or whatever it is." Not so, not so. There is a, I call it a different version of the Ebola Zaire. And that is why I use the Ebola Reston version. In layman's terms you've got to explain it and I can't get more technical at this time.

Rick: I was surprised to read the specific horses' names...

Peter: Abe and First Flight?

Rick: Yes.

Peter: Oh, yeah. There's so much more to know about Ft. Detrick and about the immunizations, the Informed Consent Waivers, the new drugs that are on the market today without the clinical trials, stuff like that.

Joshua Lederberg, big time scumbag and his anaerobic cell, and of course, he sat on with Dianna Zuckerman, and Zuckerman now is the one that has a lot of information on me. She is operating out of Hillary Clinton's office directly.

See, these Gulf War babies being born with the one eye to Golden Har [a medical/genetic term indicating a specific deformity] and without the one arm is a specific, specific example of them tampering and playing God. That is Lederberg's basic baby right there, where they can actually make humans, engineer human beings. If you check into the Golden Har Syndrome or to the Gulf War babies being born deformed, it isn't like one of them has one finger missing or an extra finger. It isn't that another one that—well, it isn't an assortment of those deficiencies or deformities; it is consistently specific deformities of eye and arm or limb missing. That is like making human beings. See, they couldn't make human beings with three or four arms. Any nurse working on that would start thinking aliens have landed. If you can engineer somebody to come out without specific arms and limbs, you can make them grow parts of their body in the way you want them to grow. I have certain other specific information, but that's off the top of my head about Joshua Lederberg and I believe he was awarded the Nobel Prize in 1988 for his work.

But that is where they are going with this anaerobic cell thing and the super-soldier that I was referring to. And you get a good drift of that, in layman's terms, when you look at the movie with Jean Claude Van Damme, UNIVERSAL SOLDIER.

Rick: What is the next stage? What should we be looking for in terms of the illnesses? Are there going to be any surprises coming up? How do you feel efforts are best put forth at this time?

Peter: Well, it depends. There will be other illnesses coming up—like really, the Ebola is going to come to be a more common outbreak here. The TB, Staph and Strep, all those are part of it. Really, it depends how they are reacting to not just me, but you guys putting out our information.

Again, I see things that are coming out by the first lady, and I'm being kind, making statements. But what I see they are doing is that they are pushing up targeted dates to a Medical I.D. Card and it seems like they are almost—something is going to have to give on that. But this skirmish with Iraq is definitely a provoked attack on the part of the U.S. We're not just finding out all this new stuff about Saddam having SCUDS with chemicals and biologicals in it; that's a crock of shit. That's what that is. We're getting these things and they keep insulting your intelligence, telling you that Saddam is trying, on the one hand, to win brownie points by coming clean, only that he's an asshole. Excuse my language because I'm really mad.

Rick: No, that's fine.

Peter: He's coming forward with this voluntary information after telling us no. They want you to believe that he's saying this in order to make brownie points, which will insure that they don't give him brownie points, that they continue sanctions. How stupid do they really think the America public is? It is just stupid. But I guess a lot of them are because they're believing it.

I am so mad at mainstream media and how America could swallow that crock when they're putting it out. I can't believe that.

Rick: How is your response on the talk shows? Obviously you're getting the word out verbally.

Peter: Really, really great. When I do a show now, I try to get people to ask questions. Some people are calling up not only with questions, but it is telling me that there is a portion of America that is really informed. On one of calls that I did this morning, he came right out and nailed it on the head and said the Gulf War was planned in advance and he started rattling off documents and things that happened to show that we actually instigated that war with Iraq for an agenda other than what America was told. So, it's good to see that. And people are asking intelligent questions. Finally, they are very concerned.

One of the guys who called me up, he only heard part of a broadcast that I gave your number, to get CONTACT, and he said, "I hear all these terrible things but is it contagious?" Oh, man. When I told it to him he said, "Oh, my God, what's their number?" He wants more information. [CONTACT—800-800-

But it's unbelievable. Mainstream America needs to hear it. The show Joyce Riley and I did in Kansas—they put us on for a half-hour gig and at the end of the half-hour they got so many calls, when we hung up the phone they pre-empted another show and did another half hour show because so many people were screaming and yelling for information. People out there are hungry but, what it is, they just don't know. A lot of people know there is a problem with America, there's a problem with the government and they have all kinds of beefs and different things, but they really don't know how bad this is and what it really means. And I think if you could only get the word out to the majority of mainstream America who do not read, necessarily, your publication. That's the sad part. They'll turn the boob-tube on; you can't reach them. I wish we could because that's what it's going to take. It's not going to take just a few people.

Rick: Are you finding that you're getting the support? Obviously you've been stripped bare financially.

Peter: No, I have no support monetarily. I had somebody give me $5 and I'm sending them some literature. I didn't ask for it, they mailed it to me. At Kansas City they took up a collection, but I took four or five days out of the work I'm trying to do. But, I got $150 for that. I didn't ask, they took a voluntary collection but I have no financial assistance and I've been fighting the IRS, the California Federal Bank and this case for five years on my own. And so, no one. I wrote to Gerry Spence and sent him a package. He bowed out and sent me a nice letter how he thinks I have a great cause and he wishes he could help. I wrote to the "dream team" through F. Lee Bailey's law firm and they sent me a nice letter, bowing out. There was an attorney and I shouldn't mention his name; he said, "Your case is wonderful. You've got 'em." I showed him some stuff; he said, "At the minimum what I want to do is ghost write for you because I want these guys." He has this nice office. Within 24-hours, the guy called me back. I received a Federal Express package, all my documents back—of course he probably photocopied them, but what I sent him wasn't my complete case. Just enough for him to know what it was about. I think he made a phone call. He bowed out and never did what he said he was going to do, including ghost write. But he did say to me—he shook my hand and said, "I can't withstand another IRS audit."

It may be, he may have taken on a few questionable clients, I don't know.

The only attorney I talked to who also had some involvement in Iran/Contra basically wanted $300,000 to fight the government and he said, "It's $300 grand to fight 'em, and if you win, you lose."

Back in 1990, the government offered to hide me before they tried to kill me. Back in '90 what they did was immediately offer me to go into the Witness Protection Program and on the phone they made me an offer so I would shut up, that the government would support me for the rest of my life. I would not have to work another day, ever.

Rick: I'm sure they would love that.

Peter: You go into the Witness Protection Program, you say good-bye to your friends and family, nobody knows where you are, you change your name. You go down to Acapulco and you think you're doing real good. One day you're laying on the beach sipping a Tia Maria with your blonde "membrella"—and you die as a John Doe. Well, my mamma didn't raise no fool.

Rick: [Laughter.]

Peter: So I turned them down, naturally, and they got pissed. And that is when they told me that I was a walking dead man. From that day, his words have rung true. They certainly have tried.

I don't publicize the death threats anymore. I've tried to stop this from being a "Poor Peter" deal. I want people to get behind this for the atrocity against these Gulf War Veterans and Americans. I don't want them to get the impression that I'm crying for me, because they're going to get me one day. What are you going to do? What am I going to do? You tell me.

Rick: Stay conscious. Stay alert.

Peter: That's it.

Rick: And frankly, the only protection that I am really aware of is prayer and asking God to protect you.

Peter: Yes, that's what I do because I figure most of it is threat. Not all of them. If they really, really, really wanted me dead, I am not that good and I have no real protection here. I do go out to restaurants from time to time or travel on the road, and I know that. I know that it is by the grace of God and the fact that this must be something He wants to take place. And as the Nicolsons have said, some of these factions have refused to kill because they themselves have been sick and some of them, even though they are murderers-for-hire, are still Americans. And a lot of people are finding out that the real agenda involved in this—see, the real agenda with this wasn't just a war with Iraq. The real agenda has to do with the New World Order. Even the mafia that may control gambling or this or that, or whatever they do—I'm not going to start getting myself into more trouble—but whatever it is, a lot of these people are Americans. They're not into this New World Order stuff, you know?

Rick: They're not into mass depopulation. For one thing, it cuts into profits.

Peter: Yeah, so not everybody is sick and satanic like these people are. So there are different reasons. It's very hard to do this. I know I have to. I've been approached to do a book and I have refrained from putting out a video or a book for a long time. And I have not charged for even the literature I've mailed out or the cost of reproductions, for the years and years and years that I've fought this. But I've slowly gone broke, and I realize that I can't just keep doing it. If I want to get the word out, I have to somehow do something. But it is amazing, as many people as I think would know by now, I have not received either a benefactor or someone who even has their own (even if it's a personal) axe to grind—that it would further their cause or a common cause. There is no greater cause today than the Gulf War and the killing of veterans and all Americans. There is no question as to what is taking place. I cannot believe—you know, there are a lot of people out there who are billionaires who are just not into, necessarily, New World Order; they're just rich folks with yachts and living a lavish lifestyle and would like to continue living a lavish lifestyle. Maybe they just don't know what is really going on. I really don't know. But I'm really surprised that some attorney doesn't take up the cause or somebody doesn't do something to fight it.

I'm not looking for a handout. And I'm not looking for somebody to send me the cash. I'm looking for—let's prosecute the case and let the chips fall where they may. Let's get this information public. Let's do a
